An Incalculable Loss

poem by Richard Leach and Norman Fischer

Stunned by this NY Times front page listing of the dead, I wanted to do something. Reaching out to the poet Richard Leach, with whom I had collaborated previously, he promptly sent me Missing Voices, which I set to music the following day. Somehow, a duet between voice and cello seemed right for his moving words. These are not statistics but individual humans with all of their connected friends and family – and this must be acknowledged, even as we struggle to fathom the depth of such loss.

Then another poet I had reached out to put me in touch with Norman Fischer, who had posted a series of coronavirus poems on his website. Reaching out to him, I was thrilled when he gave permission for me to use his poems for this cycle of songs.

As I write this, the world in slow steps is attempting to return to normal – but nothing has really changed. The virus remains as transmissible and deadly as before governments attempted to halt its spread by implementing social distancing measures. For those at risk, me included, the time to safely venture out and resume a normal life remains out of reach.

MISSING VOICES (Richard Leach)

Who can count them? Who can count them?

Silence, silence where there had been voices, absence, absence where there had been lives.

Shall we sing of numbers? No, not numbers.
We will sing of voices and of lives.

We will sing of mothers, fathers, children.
Friends and lovers, neighbors near and far.

Faces, faces, all their words and stories,
voices, voices we no longer hear.

Silence is the frame around our singing,
Silence is the canvas for our song.

Shall we sing of numbers? No, not numbers.
We will sing the loved ones who are gone.

We will sing the love that carries on.
Love carries on.

WHO ARE WE NOW (Norman Fischer)

Who we are now
We're no longer
Our activity our words

Where find
Identity when trees are swamped
By night

As if not there
Though we think we know they are
And loved ones become moving pictures

We reach out to
And believe again
As we once believed in an absent

God Sunlight on hillside
Birds still sing
Normalcy waits and wavers

TINY VIRUS HAS NO NEED (Norman Fischer)

Tiny virus has no need
Of others

 Its RNA
In harmony with Traffic patterns
At edge of substance-fiction
It repeats itself in throngs

Plays a melody ranges up and down

ALWAYS, NEVER (Richard Leach)

tears tears tears always tears and always the drying of tears and never enough to stop them from being shed again

248

Musical score for measures 248-252. The treble staff contains whole rests for measures 248-250, followed by a half note G4 and a dotted half note G4 in measures 251 and 252, with the lyrics "tears" and "tears" respectively. The bass staff features a continuous eighth-note accompaniment in G major, starting on G2 and ascending to G4. A piano dynamic marking (p) is placed below the bass staff in measure 251.

253

Musical score for measures 253-257. The treble staff has whole rests in measures 253 and 255, with a half note G4 in measure 254 and a dotted half note G4 in measure 256, both with the lyrics "tears". The bass staff continues the eighth-note accompaniment. The piece concludes with a double bar line at the end of measure 257.

A few words about (and by) the composer

STAN GRILL

Raised in the Bronx, Stan has been obsessed with music since the age of six, when his mother took him to Carnegie Hall and he was astonished and awestruck by a performance of "La Mer." While that obsession first took the form of playing piano at every possible moment (when not otherwise engaged in activities typical of a kid growing up in the Bronx of the 1950's and '60s), it was Stan's music theory studies at the Manhattan School of Music that converted that obsession to writing music – and to finding his own musical voice.

He learned the craft from extraordinary musicians: among others - Robert Helps, Leon Kushner, Ursula Mamlok and Joseph Prostakoff. Stan's passion for medieval and Renaissance music has greatly influenced his writing - a contemporary expression of ageless techniques based on melody, modal harmonies, and contrapuntal, extended, interweaving lines. Two main themes permeate many of his works - music composed in an attempt to translate something about the nature of the physical world, and music composed to inspire and promote world peace.

Stan's music has been performed the world over – from Ecuador to Poland; Toulouse to Tokyo; Brooklyn to Vienna – by such artists as Camerata Philadelphia, Camerata Arkos, Englewinds, the Pandolfis Consort, the Bronx Arts Ensemble, One World Symphony, violists Brett Deubner and Ralph Farris, and violinist Jorge Avila. Major works include three symphonies, ten string quartets, a nonet, concerti for violin, viola and cello, and numerous song cycles for voice and various instruments.

Stan's discography includes "afterwards..." with the Camerata Philadelphia string quartet, "and I paint stars with wings" with Camerata Philadelphia, "Rustling Flights of Wings" with soprano Nancy Allen Lundy, pianist Stephen Gosling and violinist Ralph Farris and "At the Center of All Things" with music performed by the Diderot String Quartet.

"As I see it, as much as we strive to find reason and purpose in our having been born into this amazing, mysterious and awe-inspiring universe, that attempt is largely futile. It is however, the best part of our nature that obliges us to make the attempt, though the most we can hope for is to gain some small degree of understanding of the world around us, and, more importantly, of ourselves. To achieve this, we each approach the problem in our own way, uniquely shaped by our cultural background, innate talents and abilities, education and so on. For some, science may be the window through which they best perceive and interpret the world, for others, religion. For those to whom the world seems to express itself most clearly and beautifully through sound, music is the voice that speaks to us and through which we, in turn, best express ourselves. Now, I can write notes that will make pretty music because I've been trained to do so – but the best of my music has arrived, rather inexplicably, as part of a personal effort to understand the world and myself. It is, in a way, an act of translation. The world says something, I try to understand it, and then translate it into musical language. The particular musical language which I speak, is, of course, a product of my conservatory training and personal musical tastes, but hopefully, the outcome, imperfect a translation as it may be, will convey to others something of its original intent."

Stan's music is melodic, modal, contrapuntal, characterized by extended, interweaving lines. His musical influences span the centuries, and include Machaut, Josquin, Palestrina, Monteverdi, Lassus, Britten, Ives, Vaughn Williams and Shostakovich.
