for
saxophone, two percussion, piano, violin, viola, cello and contrabass

Joelle Wallach

Glancing Below

Duration: 14'30"

Instrumentation:

saxophone: baritone, soprano and sopranino (one player)

percussion (two players):

- crotale (sounding two octaves above written pitch)
- glockenspiel (sounding two octaves above written pitch)
- suspended cymbal (one)
- 3 triangles (one for percussionist, one for pianist, one for violinist)
- timpani
- xylophone (sounding one octave above written pitch)
- tubular bells (sounding one octave above written pitch)
- vibraphone

The percussion part may be played by one or two percussionists. If played by only one, the percussionist should skip the triangle parts in parenthesis; the triangle notes instead being played by the player (piano or violin) in whose part they appear. They should, however, not be duplicated. Thus if two percussionists are used, only a percussionist would play the triangle notes.
